We have come here with a purpose to fulfill in our lifetime. Following our dharma is what we should strive for and by doing this will bring us to where we were destined to be. Even if we had a terrible up bringing we can overcome our obstacles and rise to the challenge of being a better person and living a better life.

After being raised in a dysfunctional home and realizing 85% of people have also been subjected to this Frank Miranda wanted to share his journey of enlightenment with all who had this experience. Through years of scientific and spiritual research and soul searching he has come to a place of peace within himself trusting the Universe for guidance. Everything happens to us for a reason to guide us to fulfill our dharma. By following this path with our true self, being non-judgmental, open and accepting to the events and people we encounter we will have everything needed in this life to succeed.
